

HERE and THERE with the GIRL SCOUTS

By Rosanna Henley

TROOP 1

The girls of Troop 1 have been spending the last few meetings outdoors. They have been hiking, making and following trails, identifying flowers, trees and shrubs, and gaining information that will help them in their second class tests. Eva Mize won the prize for making the best map of the trail at the end of the hike. A contest is on! Each month the girl receiving the highest number of points for passing tests receives an award. At the last meeting Lenora Schroeder was presented a Girl Scout handbook for receiving the highest score in March. Plans are being made for some interesting activities for the coming meetings. Captain Millerd was a guest at the Girl Scout banquet in Long Beach last Thursday evening, at which about 150 Girl Scouts, mothers and honor guests were present.

Clyde Beatty, greatest of wild animal trainers, is the only man ever to be given equal "billing" with the world's largest circus, and when he makes his annual appearance in Madison Square Garden in New York City the billboards read simply "Ringling Brothers & Barnum & Bailey Circus, with Clyde Beatty." This remarkable trainer comes to the Torrance Theatre on Friday and Saturday, April 28-29, in the featured role of Universal's hair-raising drama of circus life, "The Big Cage."

"Ramona" Will Not Be Presented At Hemet This Year

HEMET.—Because of many inquiries and ticket applications received during recent weeks at the office of the Ramona Pageant Association in Hemet, Edward Poorman, president and general manager of the outdoor production, Ramona, which has been presented for ten consecutive years, today issued a statement reminding the public that the play will not be produced this season. "The decision of the directors of the Ramona Pageant Association to abandon the 1933 season of the Ramona play was made because it was believed that economic conditions do not justify the tremendous expense of producing the play this year," said Mr. Poorman. "However, plans are now being made to stage the play for its eleventh season in the Spring of 1934."

High School Golf Team Plays Gardena

Torrance high school golf team drew a bye in the schedule of Marine League games, last week, but will take to the tees next Monday against Gardena. This match will be played at the Western avenue golf course. Both teams have won matches, Torrance defeating Bell at the Palos Verdes course on April 17, while Gardena defeated Banning on the same date. The outcome of next Monday's session may have a considerable bearing on the Marine League championship, as these two teams are the strongest in the league. Torrance will meet Leuzinger on May 8, and Banning on May 15, and expects to win both of these matches, which will be played over the Torrance home course at Palos Verdes.

No Restrictions On Liquor Sales In County Area

Federal Officers Are Only Authority to Curb High Content Sales

Sale of intoxicating liquors in Lomita, Harbor City, and other unincorporated sections of the county was left unrestricted at 12:01 a. m. Thursday, when the county's "Little Volstead" act went off the books and the new regulatory measure went into effect. The only restraint on sale of alcoholic beverages of more than 4 per cent content was by federal authorities, who admitted they were not prepared to cope with such a situation. Here is how it happens: When the Wright Act was repealed last November the enforcement power of state officers was removed. And, of course the arresting power of the sheriff's department outside cities was taken away when the Little Volstead act became void. The new regulatory ordinance for unincorporated areas simply specifies that all persons selling drinks of four per cent alcohol or less shall be licensed. The ordinance is strangely silent about drinks of more than 4 per cent alcoholic content. Arrests in unincorporated territory could be made by deputy sheriffs only for violations of the license law, or for violation of the Volstead Act. County officers have never been empowered to make arrests for federal violations, however. Enthusiastic demonstrations marked passage of the old ordinance in some sections at midnight Wednesday.

Shaw Leading In Straw Vote On Majority

Frank L. Shaw, candidate for mayor of Los Angeles, is leading other candidates in the race by a wide margin, returns from a straw vote conducted by the City-Wide News Service indicated today.

Mayor John C. Porter, incumbent, was second in the race with George E. Cryer, former mayor; Charles Dempster, assemblyman, and Frank C. Shoemaker, attorney, running neck-and-neck for third place.

The poll, it was stated by officials of the organization making it, is considered representative of a cross-section of the entire city. It includes names of voters from San Pedro to Saugus and from Belvedere to the Pacific Palisades. Ten thousand ballots were sent voters in the poll. Names were selected without regard to address or occupation proportionately in each of the 1900-odd precincts. Each voter addressed was asked to send his or her ballot to a "blind" address. Of the 10,000 ballots mailed 8841 had replied at noon Tuesday, April 18.

Following were the results of the poll: Shaw, 2385; Porter, 1810; Cryer, 664; Dempster, 522; Shoemaker, 492; other candidates, 217; total, 6841.

While City-Wide News Service poll indicated Shaw's wide margin, betting on Spring street, it was reported, continued at even money that Shaw would lead the primary ticket by at least 25,000 votes with Porter running second and Cryer bringing up a poor third. One lot of $300 was reported laid against $20 that Shaw would be elected in the primary.

Cryer's low vote in the straw balloting and his apparent weakness in Spring street "ventures" was laid mainly, it was stated, to the fact that registration has increased, according to figures of County Registrar of Voters William Kerr, by 125 per cent since Cryer went to office. It was said that Cryer as a public figure has been practically forgotten, and that he is practically unknown to the large registration which has been piled up on the county rolls in the past four years.
